INDEX TO VOL. VII

ABSORPTION from intramuscular tissue, 59
Agglutination of the pneumococcus, 420
Agglutination tests, 223
Agglutination with pertussis, 335
Anti-enzymes of inflammatory exudates, 316
Antitoxin horses, comparative statistics of, 176
AUER, JOHN. See MELTZER and AUER, 59

BACTERIA, growth on salt-free culture media of, 111
Bacteria, mass cultures of, 223
BEEBE, S. P. Cytotoxic serum produced by the injection of nucleoproteids, 733
Bile, toxicity of, 280
Blood and blood-forming organs, changes produced by cytotoxic sera in, 119
Blood, a second coagulation of, 173
Blood corpuscles, action of snake venom on, 191
Blood corpuscles, tetanophile receptor of, 351
Blood pressure, effects of bile on, 280
Blood "pressures" with severe hæmorrhage, 1
Blood serum, growth of pneumococci in, 626
Bone-marrow, enzymes of, 759
BORDEN, JOHN HARVEY. See HISS, BORDEN, and KNAPP, 547
BUERGER, LEO. Studies of the pneumococcus and allied organisms with reference to their occurrence in the human mouth, 497

CALCAREOUS degeneration, 633
Cell exudates, action of glycerin on bacteria in the presence of, 725
Coagulation of the blood, a second, 173
COLLINS, KATHERINE R. The application of the reaction of agglutination to the pneumococcus, 420
Culture media, salt-free, 111
Cytotoxic sera, 119, 733

DAWSON, PERCY M. The changes in the heart rate and blood "pressures" resulting from severe hæmorrhage and subsequent infusion of sodium bicarbonate, 1
Diphtheria toxin, 176
DUVAL, CHARLES W., and LEWIS, PAUL A. Studies on the pneumococcus, 473
Dysentery and dysentery-like organisms, 365, 385

ECK'S fistula, 163, 751
EMERSON, HAVEN, and NORRIS, CHARLES. "Red-leg"—An infectious disease of frogs, 32
Endothelial separation in the smaller arteries and veins, 183
Enzymes of inflammatory exudates, 316
Enzymes of bone-marrow, 759
ERLANGER, JOSEPH. On the physiology of heart-block in mammals, with special reference to the causation of Stokes-Adams disease, Part I, 676

FARNUM, CHARLES G. Some observations upon endothelial separation in the smaller arteries and veins, 183
FIELD, CYRUS W. On the presence of certain bodies in the skin and blister fluid from scarlet-fever and measles, 343
FOX, W. W. See LONGCOPE and FOX, 430
Frogs, an infectious disease of, 32

GLYCERIN, action of, on bacteria, 725

HÆMOLYMPHOTOXIN, 119
Hæmorrhage, changes in the heart rate and blood "pressures" with, 1

HARRIS, NORMAN MACLEOD. The construction of a thermostat-room, 308
HASTINGS, T. W. A method for preparing a permanent Nocht's stain (Nocht-Jenner stain), 265
Heart-block in mammals, 676
Heart rate with severe hæmorrhage, 1
HERRICK, FREDERICK C. A contribution to the technique of making the Eck fistula, 751
HERTER, C. A. The color reactions of napthaquinone sodium-monosulphonate and some of their biological applications, 79
Hexon bases of liver tissue, 292
HISS, PHILIP HANSON, Jr. A method for obtaining mass cultures of bacteria for inoculation and for agglutination tests: with special reference to pneumococci and streptococci, 223
HISS, PHILIP HANSON, Jr., assisted by BORDEN, JOHN HARVEY, and KNAPP, CLINTON BEECHAM. A comparative study of pneumococci and allied organisms. 547
HUBBERT, WILLIAM R. Comparative statistics of antitoxin horses. A study of the records of one hundred horses immunized to diphtheria toxin, with composite of curves, 176

IMMUNIZING powers of micro-organisms, 229
Inflammatory exudates, enzymes and anti-enzymes of, 316
Infusion of sodium bicarbonate after hæmorrhage, 1
Intramuscular tissue, absorption from, 59

KINYOUN, J. J. The action of glycerin on bacteria in the presence of cell exudates, 725
KLOTZ, OSKAR. Studies upon calcareous degeneration, 633
KNAPP, CLINTON BEECHAM. See HISS, BORDEN, and KNAPP, 547

LEWIS, PAUL A. See DUVAL and LEWIS, 473
Liver, Hexon bases of, 292
LONGCOPE, WARFIELD T., and FOX, W. W. A comparative study of pneumococci and streptococci from the mouths of healthy individuals and from pathological conditions, 430
LONGCOPE, WARFIELD T. A note upon the growth of pneumococci in blood serum, 626

MASS cultures of bacteria, 223
Measles, the presence of certain bodies in the skin with, 343
MEDICAL COMMISSION FOR THE INVESTIGATION OF ACUTE RESPIRATORY DISEASES of the Department of Health of the City of New York, introductory note to studies on the pneumococcus under the auspices of, 401
MELTZER, S. J., and AUER, JOHN. On the rate of absorption from intramuscular tissue, 59
MELTZER, S. J., and SALANT, WILLIAM. Studies on the toxicity of bile. I—The effects of intravenous injections of bile upon blood pressure, 280

NAPHTHAQUINONE sodium-monosulphonate, 79
Nocht's stain, 265
NOGUCHI, HIDEYO. A study of the protective action of snake venom upon blood corpuscles, 191
NORRIS, CHARLES. See EMERSON and NORRIS, 32
NORRIS, CHARLES, and PAPPENHEIMER, ALWIN M. A study of the pneumococci and allied organisms in human mouths and lungs after death, 450
Nucleoproteids, cytotoxic serum produced by the injection of, 733

OPIE, EUGENE L. Enzymes and anti-enzymes of inflammatory exudates, 316
———. The presence in the bone-marrow of enzymes resembling those of leucocytes, 759

PAPPENHEIMER, ALWIN M. See NORRIS and PAPPENHEIMER, 450
PARK, WILLIAM H., and WILLIAMS, A. W. A study of pneumococci: A comparison between the pneumococci found in the throat secretions of healthy persons living in both city and country, and those obtained from pneumonic exudates and diseased mucous membranes, 403
Pertussis, bacteriology of, 335
Pneumococci from the mouth, 430, 450, 497

Pneumococci, growth in blood serum of, 626
Pneumococci in the lungs, 450
Pneumococci, in throat secretions, in pneumonic exudates, and from diseased mucous membranes, 403
Pneumococcus, agglutination of, 420
Pneumococcus, studies on, 401, 403, 430, 450, 473, 497, 547
Pneumococcus, viability after drying of, 592
Pneumonic infection, factors in, 592

"RED-LEG"—An infectious disease of frogs, 32
REICHERT, EDWARD T. A second coagulation of the blood due to a substance that is not identical with fibrinogen and is coagulable by saturation with neutral oxalate, 173
RICKETTS, H. T. Concerning the possibility of an anti-body for the tetanophile receptor of erythrocytes: A receptor study, 351

SALANT, WILLIAM. See MELTZER and SALANT, 280
Scarlet-fever, the presence of certain bodies in the skin with, 343
Snake venom, protective action of, 191
Stokes-Adams disease, 676
Streptococci from the mouth, 430
STRONG, RICHARD P. Some questions relating to the virulence of micro-organisms with particular reference to their immunizing powers, 229
SWEET, J. E. The artificial anastomosis between the portal vein and the vena cava inferior—Eck's fistula, 163

TAYLOR, ALONZO ENGLEBERT. On the preparation of salt-free culture media and the growth of bacteria upon them, 111
Tetanophile receptor of erythrocytes, 351
Thermostat-room, construction of, 308
TORREY, JOHN C. A comparative study of dysentery and dysentery-like organisms. Part I. Bacilli producing a typical reaction in litmus milk, 365; Part II. Dysentery-like organisms which produce an atypical reaction in litmus milk, and which should probably be included within the group of pseudo-dysentery bacilli, 385

VIRULENCE of micro-organisms, 229

WAKEMAN, ALFRED J. On the hexon bases of liver tissue under normal and certain pathological conditions, 292
WILLIAMS, A. W. See PARK and WILLIAMS, 403
WOLLSTEIN, MARTHA. A study of the bacteriology of pertussis, with special reference to the agglutination of the patient's blood, 335
WOLTMANN, HARRO. A study of the changes in the blood and blood-forming organs produced by cytotoxic sera, with special reference to hæmolymphotoxin, 119
WOOD, FRANCIS CARTER. The viability of the pneumococcus after drying: A study of one of the factors in pneumonic infection, 592
